The Hardins have been foremost as settlers of the Great West. Towns and counties in many of the Western States have been named for them. As planters, lawyers, soldiers and honest politicians, they have, for more than an hundred years, held an enviable place in the annals of our country. That they still retain the traits of the original founder Le Hardi, the bold, the courageous, the venturesome, with the corresponding traits of truthfulness and honesty, is proved by the distinguished positions held by many of them in our day. Is it not, therefore, the duty of the living members, to collect the family records, history and genealogy? The undersigned hopes the living descendants of all branches of the family will cheerfully furnish him all the information within their reach. Where you cannot give all of above required particulars, give all you can, especially as to your own family, and as soon as convenient. And give the names and post-office addresses or present residences of those to whom the undersigned can write for further particulars if necessary. Give names and dates in full where you can.

Respectfully yours,

MARTIN D. HARDIN,

Brig. Gen. U. S. Army, Retired.
